

March 18, 2020

Hi everyone,

As we prepare for the remainder of the semester online, and to help us with this rapid transition, Nina Kohn will hold two interactive web conferences for College of Law faculty. Although it is currently spring break, please make an effort to attend at least one of the sessions. Each session will last approximately one hour. Note that the Thursday evening session will be open to law faculty from other law schools.

As we know, Professor Kohn not only led the development of the College of Law's JDinteractive and teaches its first-year Torts class, she has also helped our JDi-participating faculty translate their residential courses into the online space.

In addition to answering questions from faculty members, Professor Kohn will discuss best practices when teaching live online, giving exams, and using technology for out-of-class learning, including the nuts and bolts of Zoom.

Please attend one of the sessions below. Access the meeting by clicking on the link. Please contact Stephanie Rinko if you have any issues trying to access the meeting.

- Wednesday, March 18, 3:30 p.m. EST: <https://sulaw.zoom.us/my/ninakohn>
- Thursday, March 19, 9 p.m. EST: <https://sulaw.zoom.us/my/ninakohn>

I know and appreciate that everyone is working hard to prepare for the coming weeks and to protect, and advance, our students. Many thanks to Nina, also, for making herself available from a distance and while on sabbatical to support our efforts.

All the best,

Keith
