Dear Students,

This week is not an ordinary week. I say that, not so much because working from home and social distancing is starting to feel routine. .. I say it because this week, final exams are upon us.

Congratulations on the end of the semester and good luck on your exams! I am thinking of all of you—knowing that, while COVID-19 has commanded a change (or many) in our approach, it won't change your drive or break your stride.

Be well this week and next. Stay strong. Stay safe. A major milestone lies ahead.

You've got this!
