

June 3, 2020

Hello to all.

You may have received the June 2 message from the University's central IT department, referencing upcoming training webinars and other resources for developing online course content.

This information is focused primarily on undergraduate programs and is not intended for legal education.

I would like to take this opportunity to encourage you instead to register for the College of Law's own training sessions for online courses, scheduled to begin next week.

The original memo with session registration links, as sent by Dean Boise on May 21, can be read here.

Thank you.
