Dear Students:

Welcome back to the College of Law! I hope you have had a good winter break and joyful holidays. Happy 2021!

Although we have begun the semester online, I am eager to re-open Dineen Hall as soon as it is possible to do so.

On January 13, you received a message from Syracuse University Vice President for the Student Experience Robert D. Hradsky, Ed.D., concerning the University's protocols and requirements for all students who intend to be on campus this spring. Please review these protocols and requirements as soon as possible to ensure that you are ready to come to campus and enter Dineen Hall at the first opportunity. These requirements include proof of a negative COVID-19 test and flu vaccination, and compliance with the State's quarantine instructions. As you know—but for access to the testing centers—campus is closed, and therefore Dineen Hall is closed, until February 8.

Please click on the links above, and be sure to review the details of testing requirements applicable to students from New York and contiguous states and testing and quarantine requirements applicable to students from non-contiguous states and international locations.

As conditions continue to evolve, please monitor your email and visit the University's coronavirus information site and—for College of Law-specific updates—our Law Preparedness page on the Path to Spring 2021. Please also stay abreast of New York State's quarantine requirements to ensure your state of readiness upon our return to campus.

I wish you a strong start and a productive and gratifying spring!

Stay safe,

Craig M. Boise

Dean and Professor of Law
