

2019-2020 Estimated JDInteractive Program Cost of Attendance

The College of Law provides an estimate of the costs that are reasonable for a student to attend Syracuse University College of Law and pursue the J.D. degree program. Figures 1 and 2 (below) represent tuition and fees for a law student engaged in part-time study in the JDInteractive program for the 2019-2020 academic year

Figures within the budget categories 3 through 8 (below) may vary from student to student. These variations are acceptable as long as they do not exceed the estimated maximum of $58,860. For figures 3 through 8, please take into account all of your actual and expected expenses for your first two semesters, which extend January 2019 – July 2019.

*Tuition for students enrolled in the JDInteractive program is charged on a per-credit-hour basis. The current program rate of tuition for the 2019 fiscal and academic year is $1,850 per credit.

Syracuse University College of Law does not charge students in the JDInteractive program fees typically associated with on-campus programs (i.e. health and wellness fees and student activity fees). Residencies are a requirement of the JDInteractive program; the residency fee covers course materials and supplies, costs associated with speakers, transportation to events planned during the residency, catering and food charges, space rental, and other miscellaneous expenses.

Textbook, travel, and housing costs are each student's responsibility. Additional expenses must be approved by the College of Law Financial Aid Office with proper documentation. Allowable types of expenses may include the one-time cost of purchasing a computer or childcare expenses.

Expenses NOT allowed in the educational budget include payment of consumer debt (such as credit card payments), the purchase or upkeep of an automobile, costs associated with finding employment (interview expenses, clothing), and expenses incurred during periods of non-enrollment (i.e. between terms/semesters).
